I oppose exporting coal for the following reasons; We as a Nation and Nations of the world need to phase out Carbon Dioxide latent energy sources as quickly as possible. CO₂ building up in our atmosphere is causing our ~~planet~~ planet's climate to turn against us. We are seeing 300 MPH Tornadoes in Oklahoma, Wildfires that are out of control for months, Flooding situations that are unprecedented, Hurricanes like Sandy and Katrina that are only getting stronger and worse each year. We need to work on solutions to Global Climate destruction instead of exacerbating the problem even further.

I also oppose exporting coal because we will be shipping this coal to China and Asia where it will be burned, and we will have to choke on its resultant smog when it blows back across the Pacific right at us.

I also oppose these exports because the town that any coal terminal might end up getting sited in will have the grave misfortune ^{of} becoming ~~just~~ another gritty industrial town with bad air and a shrinking economy because no one will choose to move there and many of its residents will choose to move elsewhere. Think Detroit or Gary Indiana.
